Trendsetting: creative craftsmanship

At St. Joris we design and produce everything ourselves. Our creative team of inventors develops new applications, shapes and colours every day. If necessary, together with you. So your own creativity can grow with our expertise.

Since 1923 our love and knowledge of clay leads to sublime shapes and colours within the construction industry across Europe. And our creative professionals are involved from the first design onwards, with buildings that enrich our lives every day.

90 years innovation: timeless craftsmanship, the most modern technology

Westerwalder clay has been almost 90 years the foundation of our craft. The unfired bricks are first covered with a layer of glaze. We then fire them in own state-of-the art kilns at extremely high temperatures. According to the latest requirements for durability and resource consumption. So every brick will withstand lifelong any external force. And each building can wear the title “durable” with pride.

The inventors: each brick starts with an idea

Any design or idea you have, at St. Joris we think and design with you from the first sketches onwards. So we arrive together at surprising solutions and colourful designs.

The inventors of St. Joris have for years been working closely with architects, designers, builders and developers. And we never only see the limitations, but always look for the possibilities.
